Microsoft needs to be broken up -- come on government get with it.

Making the operating system and the software to run on it is just plain not fair. I read somewhere that this is akin to a situation wherein the post office would be the only one selling the letters and boxes, and then sells the stamps to send them. But this is not right-- what Microsoft has is the not just the letters and boxes, they're the only ones with the secret to making paper and cardboard and the right to sell the letters and boxes, and the stamps to run on them. This is more like if GM were the only ones to build cars, and that in order to run at over 30 mph, you had to buy gasoline produced by GM -- this just is not fair.

Our computer world will not fall because of Microsoft's break up -- this will allow entrepreneurs to step into the gap.

Take Microsoft apart!!
